Program description Climate Action Artist Residencies

In 2024/2025, the Climate Action Artist Residencies will enable a total of eight artists (two from Germany and six from selected V20 countries) from all artistic disciplines to spend up to three months working in organizations that conduct climate impact research and create artistic projects conveying the realities and interconnectedness of climate change in the selected V20 countries and Germany. Participants from V20 countries will travel to Germany for this purpose, while participants from Germany will travel to selected V20 countries. The focus is on the following V20 member countries in the Asia/Pacific region: Fiji, the Philippines and Samoa. During their stays, the participants are involved in a research organization or in a research context in which the dangers of climate and consequential crises are scientifically addressed. The residencies focus on the artistic exploration of the globally intertwined and scientifically proven vulnerabilities triggered by the climate crisis in the countries of the V20 and in Germany. Selected artists will implement an artistic project conveying the realities and interconnectedness of climate change in the selected V20 countries and Germany to make them accessible to a wider public.
